Lawton, Okla., Feb. 13.—Fire which broke out in the clothing store of Fred Sponsler on O avenue, at 1 o'clock Friday morning, for a time threatened that portion of the business district. The flames had a big start before the fire was discovered and the Sponsler stock, consisting of about $9,000 worth of clothing and furnishings, is practically a total loss from fire and water. The flames burned through the west wall into the Whitney shoe store and did considerable damage to the stock of shoes and hosiery. Both losses are partially covered by insurance.

JOHN D. TEMPORIZES

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 10.—Tax Commissioners John D. Fackler and William Agnew drove to Forest Hill today to find out whether John D. Rockefeller, who is now in Tarrytown, N. Y., had filled out the blank left with him a week ago for the listing of his personal fortification.

They were received by the oil king's secretary, who gave them a letter signed by Mr. Rockefeller in which he acknowledged receipt of the blank, said he had not time to make his return before leaving Cleveland, but would do so later. Fackler and Agnew decided to give Mr. Rockefeller time to make a voluntary return. If this does not satisfy the commissioners when received, they will determine upon other action to place on the duplicate the several hundred million dollars' worth of securities which Mr. Rockefeller owns.

WIFE SAYS PREACHER BEAT HER

Warrensburg, Mo., Feb. 12.—The Rev. Pierce Ingram, a young Baptist minister, who is being sued for divorce by his wealthy wife, Florence Haller Ingram, in the Johnson county circuit court, is fighting desperately to maintain his character against the crowd of witnesses from Rose Hill township, testifying in behalf of his wife. In her petition for divorce Mrs. Ingram alleges that many times the minister would fly into a passion and beat her.

Finally, in April, 1912, he told her he would not live with her and left her home, she says. She returned to the home of her mother and brother near La Tour. Ingram afterwards appeared at the Haller home and forcibly took their 3-year-old daughter from the home and still retains possession of the child.

Ingram, in his suit for $10,000 against the members of the Haller Land company for alienating his wife's affections, told a story of long suffering at the hands of the Haller brothers. He married Florence Haller in 1907 and for several years lived in a house on the Haller estate. From the first, he says, he was subjected to the sneers and abuse of the Haller brothers. They sneered to his wife about his sermons, calling him ignorant and incapable, sneered at his farm work and dubbed him "Jack of all trades" and good for none," he charges.

Plans For Primary

Washington, Feb. 10.—Preparations of a presidential primary bill as advocated by President Wilson, will begin at once. Announcement to that effect was made today by Chairman Rucker of the House committee on the election of president, vice president and representatives, before which committee the proposed legislation will be considered.

Representative Rucker has an engagement with the president tomorrow to discuss the subject, and it is expected actual writing of the primary measure will be undertaken almost immediately. Mr. Rucker and members of the committee have been conferring with Secretary Bryan and Solicitor Folk of the State Department to ascertain their views on the proposed legislation. Both indicated they favor the state primary law plan.

As a result of these conferences Representative Rucker says the committee is agreed that some primary law should be enacted by Congress, but disagrees upon what form of primary should be provided. Mr. Rucker, however, expressed confidence that a primary law would be passed at this session of Congress.

GIVES WIFE TO ANOTHER

Sterling, Ill., Feb. 13.—Charles Applegate today voluntarily freed his wife so that she might marry another man, forgave the rival who had won his spouse from him and started for San Francisco to forget the past cruising with the navy.

Recently Applegate learned that his wife's affections had been transferred to another. He talked the situation over with her, and she told him that she could not be happy without the new object of her love. Applegate thought the matter over and decided that as he had promised to make his wife happy the best thing to do was to give her to another man.

Applegate today filed a suit for divorce, obtained it, bade good bye to his former wife and her new love, and boarded a train for California.
